

GERMAN CONGRESS OF RADIOLOGY

The program of the annual scientific meeting of the German Radiological Society (Deutsche Röntgengesellschaft, DRG) has two main focal points:

- The scientific section that provides an overview of the latest research results and how they are applied.
- The advanced education offers a large variety of workshops and refresher courses.

More than 7,000 visitors annually have turned the German Radiological Congress into the second largest Congress of medical imaging in Europe. Find more information here: www.roentgenkongress.de

RÖKO INTERNATIONAL

Although we are a German-language society the DRG has always paid distinct attention to the international exchange of knowledge and experience on the German Radiological Congress. In 2015 we have a premiere: the program

"Röko International" is a combination of excellent speakers and essential topics of medical imaging. It grew out of many years of cooperation and mutual projects with other radiological societies supported by Bayer AG. The sessions are open for radiologists of ANY LEVEL OF QUALIFICATION.

INVITATION

Dear colleagues

I would like to invite you to the 96th German Radiological Congress. Our convention is themed "Technology for People" this time, and it will take place May 13 – 16, 2015 in Hamburg.

Like no other medical specialty radiology represents the symbiosis of medical skills and technological innovation. On that account it is important to us to hold this congress together with other societies that are likewise strongly associated to technology and natural sciences. Together we will examine fields closely linked to radiology such as nanotechnology, information science, and physics: sciences that strengthen radiology with their innovations constantly.

The world of science moves together. With our new program "Roko International" we will give room to representatives from Europe, America, and Asia which at the same time gives us the chance to learn from distinguished experts of the radiological community. Not least you will also find familiar sessions in our congress program such as "F1 für den Facharzt".

On our website (www.roentgenkongress.de) you will find more information concerning our congress plans during the upcoming months. I am looking forward to welcome you in May 2015 in Hamburg!

Gerhard Adam

ROKO 2015 Congress President
